

SARVER family

December 30, 2015

Dear Friends,

Happy New Year from the Sarver family! We want to thank the Lord for giving us a wonderful year serving Him here in Ghana. Let me share with you some blessings from just the past month.

Eternal Security for a Temporary-Services Agency: On a recent Saturday, my son John and I met a young man named Ernest sitting at a car wash. I asked him if I could show him what the Bible said about going to Heaven. As we began our discussion, a teen named Michael walked up and was interested in our conversation. Michael, like Ernest, spoke English very well, so I asked John to share the Gospel with him. Praise the Lord! I believe both Ernest and Michael trusted Christ.

Ernest is the manager of a small temporary-services agency called Sky

Opportunity Consult near our church. After I showed Ernest several verses on eternal security, he told me he wanted me to come preach to his co-workers the message I had just preached to him. So on the next Tuesday afternoon, I went and met his co-workers: Alex, Ellen, and Eric. Baffour, a client, was there as well. For over an hour, I preached to Alex, Ellen, Eric, and Baffour; and all 4 saw their need to place their faith in Christ alone for salvation. We got Ernest and his co-workers started on our discipleship booklets. Pray that these young people will visit our church soon.

Christmas Cookies: Our Bible college was in session for the second week of December. I very much enjoyed having Pastor Isaac Kwaw, Pastor Samson Laniran, Brother Thomas Opoku, and Brother Frederick Addo-Tettey in my English class. My family and I made Christmas cookies for all of our college students, which has become an enjoyable family tradition.

Prayer Requests: Please pray for the individuals of our Sunday school class and church to grow spiritually in 2016. Pray also for more laborers for the harvest here in Kumasi and more students for our Bible college in the coming year. I was delighted to get an email this morning from a former Bible college student who plans to enroll again in January.

Thank you for believing in us!

Michael, Maria, John, Joy, Faith, and Ben
