Hello Prayer Team,

Yesterday afternoon, Becky and I had an appointment with my oncologist. The following are several things she mentioned during the appointment:

1. There is only a little bit of activity shown on the PET scan where the plasmacytoma (tumor) was. The doctor said it could possibly be inflammation, but she was not sure. Another PET scan will be done in four months. No additional treatments are needed. PRAISE
2. Sarcoidosis did not show up anywhere on the PET scan. PRAISE
3. Nothing new showed up on the recent MRI of the brain. PRAISE
4. The bloodwork from Tuesday came back normal. PRAISE
5. The nerve damage to my feet could likely be irreversible . . . medically speaking.
6. The neuropathy symptoms could possibly go away in time since the sarcoidosis has disappeared.

We love you all very much! Thank you for your prayers. To God be all the glory!!
